Organizing Memorabilia

People save all sorts of things as memorabilia: photos, letters, ticket stubs, house keys, business cards, certificates, school work, artwork, trophies, clothing, jewelry, furniture, locks of hair, military medals, etc. Memorabilia is important. It reminds us of important people and events in our lives. These memories help establish, preserve and celebrate our sense of self. Consider for a moment the types of things you collect. Now consider the way you organize your collection. Many clients ask for support in improving the organization, storage and display of memorabilia so they can reduce stress and increase the enjoyment of their past in the present.

This month we offer you a variety of resources to help organize and enjoy your memorabilia.
